Arlington Ready For 4th Celebration

Big building program for Arlington Hts. on the way

Arlington Park addition paves way for more

Arlington Heights is getting ready for a huge building program. The very minute the government releases necessary building materials. A large part of that building program is not waiting for that release. The erection of the 55 homes in Arlington Park by the Beisinger organization under the war housing program is what one building operator is doing. There are others who are making plans to engage in a similar program in other parts of town.

Some of these activities have been made possible by the interest of a group of special assessment bond holders who have pooled their interests and have acquired title to 200 lots and 100 acres of vacant property within the corporate limits of Arlington Heights. One such deal included, not alone the holder of the big sewer bonds, but also the paving contractors, plus contractors who installed sewer and water. Jointly they were able to lift a large part of the lots in Arlington Park Subdivision out of the red and get them back on the tax books.

The big sewer group has extended its liquidating activities to other parts of town. In some sections there won't be building operations until the building lid is removed, but at least everything will be awaiting the green light and the ability of the community to assimilate the homes. There is no doubt, stated one contractor, that if Arlington is going to open its doors to light industries the demand for homes will be tremendous.

Mr. Beisinger, operating in Arlington Park, has started many homes and has taken out building permits on an additional thirty.

Add two million to assessed valuation

One of the principals in the liquidating movement told this reporter last week that he believes two million dollars in assessed valuations will be added during the next three years. In fact, he expects his own building program to reach that amount within that period.

The recent sale of 250 lots in the southern part of the village by Fred Giesche means that another group of builders is getting ready for extensive operations in the territory west of Scarsdale. These men have spent a lot of money to secure the property in question and will put it on the market very soon.

Arlingdale half sold out

Arlingdale, comprising approximately 60 acres east of Wilke and north of Euclid ave., was placed on the market only two months ago. It is half sold out and a number of the buyers have filed applications for priorities which will enable them to enter homes. The restrictions are $5,000. There are 91 half acre lots in this tract.

The greater part of vacant property within the village lies north-east. The Reed tract was recently sold and is being divided into lots 100x300 feet each.

There are great development possibilities in that section. Large tracts there have already passed into the hands of a developer who in turn has liquidated a lot of special assessment bonds against the property. Building plans on some of the sections are in the making. Scarsdale estates

Scarsdale estates, south of Scarsdale, is a highly restricted tract and is probably beyond the reach of the average home seeker, but with Scarsdale it gives Arlington the gold coast touch.

Another tract subdivision in the making is Laurinwood, lying east of Scarsdale estates and owned by Elmer Laurin.

Hit on Okinawa

Trig Anderson of Palatine has received word that his son, Olaf, has been wounded for the third time on Okinawa and is now on his way back to the United States on a hospital ship.

Mr. Anderson received the news from a buddy of his son, Stanley Hughes, who is a Seabee connected with the marines in the Okinawa campaign.

Mr. Anderson does not know the extent of his son's injuries. Olaf was wounded twice previously in the Okinawa campaign but recovered and got back into action.

Girl Scout council plans day camp here

Outdoor activities have always had a major place in the Girl Scout programs; girls of all ages are eager for the fun and adventure to be found in the out-of-doors, whether it is on a nature exploration, or a cook-out. Because the Arlington Heights Girl Scout Council believes so firmly that a camping and outdoor program adds much to the development of girls, it is proud to announce the completion of plans for its first Day Camp.

The large shelter in the Elk Grove Forest Preserve will be the Staff Headquarters. Starting July 9 the Day Camp operates for four days for Brown Scouts and July 16 to 19 for Girl Scouts. Girls who have their first taste of camping through day camping, are ready to gain much from the other camping experiences as they progress through their Girl Scout years, since each outdoor experience builds on the past and looks to the future.

The camp staff is made up of leaders, senior Girl Scouts and others interested in the Girl Scout program. They have been carefully trained by Mrs. E. E. Brooks, the Training Chairman of the Girl Scout Council. The training has included activities such as fire building, outdoor cooking of the menus which the Day Campers will cook while in camp and program activities such as singing, folk dancing, nature trails and campcraft. Forty adults have attended the training sessions which have covered a total of fifteen hours.

The range of activities of Day Camp is wide and gives each girl an opportunity to make her contribution to the group. Girl Scouts who go camping together year after year develop a sense of comradeship, loyalty, mutual aid, and deep appreciation of the gifts of each to the whole. It is here at Day Camp the "steadying forces" of direct contact with the earth, the constancy of evening and morning, the sureness of brooks and tides, the firmly planted trees, can enter into the life of girls and leaders and become a sure release from the strains in today's world.

For transportation plans refer to an important notice to all Girl Scout parents under Girl Scout news.

Move deadlines for next week

Many deadlines for Paddock Publications have moved up one day next week because of the July 4th holiday. Though some of the editions will be printed a day early, all papers will reach the public at the usual time.

Want ad page will close Tuesday noon, instead of the usual Wednesday, and all news for With Uncle Sam must be in the editor's hands by Monday at 5.

All Arlington Heights news should be in on Monday, though a limited amount can still be used Tuesday. News for the Cook County Herald must be in by Tuesday noon, as must all items for Mt. Prospect.

New Dairy-Maid ice cream shop opens this week

Announcement of the grand opening of the new Dairy-Maid ice cream and sandwich shop this week in Arlington Heights has been made. The newly-remodeled sweet shop, formerly Heidorn's, was taken over by the new owners a few weeks ago. It has been closed the past two weeks for repainting and remodeling.

Dairy-Maid ice cream will be featured at the shop in "richer and better" malts and sodas. Sandwiches will also be served.

Stamps expire this Saturday; new ones valid Sunday

Five gone and five coming up in both red and blue stamps is the record for this week end. In the processed foods, blue N2-S2 expire Saturday. And for meat and butter (remember?) red stamps E2-J2 expire.

Sunday morning J1-N1 in the blue stamps become valid, as do A1-E1 in the red stamps. They all expire October 31.

New editor arrives just in time for press day

Evidence that he had real newspaper blood in his veins was proven Wednesday morning when Robert Y. Paddock, Jr., arrived just in time to help put the paper to press. His grandad, Stuart Paddock, was away on vacation this week so Bob, Sr., welcomed the help of the new arrival.

The boy arrived at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at Sherman hospital, Elgin, weighing in at 8 pounds. Both he and his mother are doing fine.

Time to cool off

Public awaits pool opening this Friday

This Friday afternoon at 1 p. m. the turnstiles of the Arlington Heights swimming pool will be unlocked and will start to click. If the hot weather prevailing last week end is present again this week, the most comfortable spot in town will be inside the pool in the cool, crystal clear water.

The Arlington pool has been slowly filled the past week, enabling the temperature of the water to rise to a point where swimming can be an enjoyable pastime, rather than a polar bear experience.

Single admission can be paid up on entering the pool, but all swimmers are urged to purchase season tickets at greater savings.

Season tickets for the entire family are $6.00; individual adult (over 18) $4.20; children 14-18 inclusive, $3.00; children under 14, $1.80. These prices include the 20% federal tax. All tickets can be purchased at the fieldhouse. Single admissions are .12, .22 and .28.

During the afternoon session Miss Eleanor Kestin, recreational director at the Park, will be in the pool area and will conduct swimming classes each afternoon. The instruction is free as it is the desire of park officials for everyone in Arlington Heights and surrounding towns to become good swimmers.

Evening swimming period will begin at 6:30, but will not include any instruction.

The wading pool, under supervision, will be open at all times for the small children who are too small for the adult pool. There is no charge for the wading pool.

Swimming classes at the pool in Recreation Park are scheduled to start the week of July 2nd. These

Sees better postwar living

At the first joint meeting of the Arlington Heights Lions Club and the respective Chamber of Commerce, Thursday evening, June 21, at the Lutheran school basement, both organizations had a repast of fried chicken with trimmings and listened to a very entertaining and instructive speaker, Howard Gramlich, Agricultural Agent of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway.

Virgil Horath, retiring president of the Lions Club's introduced Dr. Bauman, President of the Chamber of Commerce, who introduced N. J. Ziener, Secretary of the Agricultural-Industry Committee of the State Chamber of Commerce, who introduced the speaker and vice versa at the close of the meeting.

Vets' education

GIs can still earn high school diploma

Principal tells of methods of recognition

A few weeks ago at the Palatine High school graduation exercises several boys in service were awarded diplomas based upon service credit. There are a large number of boys from towns of this area in the service who are not high school graduates but who would find it a great advantage to have a diploma after their return to civilian life. For those who dropped out of high school in the first two years such a diploma represents a rather difficult proposition but for those who lack six or less of the 16 units required for graduation the chances are rather good for securing the credits.

There are in the main three areas in which credit may be secured toward high school graduation. The first is the credit for service training. The National Association of Secondary School Principals recommends that a maximum of two units be given for basic training in the service. This training of about 12 weeks has much as a rule which is similar to high school work.

The second type of service training is the special or technical schooling that some men receive. If this schooling is in college or special school the Armed Forces Institute will collect the records from the various training centers and send it to the high school of the serviceman's choice for evaluation.

The Armed Forces Institute does not give credits for its work but rather gives tests and sends all records of work done to the high school or colleges for evaluation. It is recommended that the schools in turn have their state or regional accrediting agencies pass upon their decisions.

Travel counts

Third, there is the informal or general educational experience gained by many men through travel in foreign countries and new localities and through observation of the customs and people; also through library services, visual aids such as films, and other means men in service receive informal education. This experience may be evaluated through the General Educational Development Test given by the Armed Forces Institute.

Norms for this test show how high a man should rank to be equal to the normal high school senior at the time of graduation. This test covers the following fields of general education: (1) correctness and effectiveness of expression; (2) ability to interpret reading materials in the social studies; (3) ability to interpret reading materials in natural sciences; (4) ability to interpret literary materials; (5) ability in general mathematics.

Persons who lack considerable credit for graduation may through good results on these tests prove that they are worthy of a high school diploma and may receive it, provided the state required subjects have been passed. Separate tests in these subjects may also be taken through the Armed Forces Institute in addition to the General Educational Test and, with satisfactory results, credit may be given.

To summarize, this advice is offered to servicemen and their parents in cases where credits are needed for graduation: (1) Find out how many credits are needed by calling or writing the high school; (2) subtract two units from this total for the basic training; (3) if state required subjects are lacking take them through the

Cub Scouts to get Eisenhower medals July 4

As a fitting climax to the big July 4th Parade there will be a presentation ceremony at Recreation Park in which 37 of the local Cub Scouts will receive Gen. Eisenhower medals. These medals are their awards for collecting at least 1000 pounds of scrap paper apiece in the recent waste paper drive. The Government has placed such importance on the collection of this material that they struck off an attractive and valuable Gen. Eisenhower medal as an incentive and reward for the young citizens who have assisted the war effort in these campaigns. Together with the Boy Scouts, who received their medals at their own Court of Honor on June 13th, the Cubs have delivered 40 tons of this vital war material.

The names of the boys who will be honored immediately following the termination of the parade at the park are as follows:

David Heckmiller, Robert Chamberlain, William Rudd, Kermit Mueller, John Eakins, Gerald Eakins, Edward Hunsinger, Michael Theis, Gerhardt Deininger, David Helfers.

Arlington pair hurt in crash

Miss Betty Larson, 19, of Arlington Heights, was seriously injured Monday morning when the automobile in which she was riding with F. J. Coleman, 20, also of Arlington Heights, went out of control and crashed into a culvert on Cuba road, near Barrington.

Miss Larson was taken to Sherman hospital, Elgin, where an examination revealed she was suffering from fractures of the pelvis, ribs, and collar bone in addition to bruises, cuts and shock.

Coleman suffered numerous cuts about the face, arms and legs, requiring numerous stitches. He was taken to the station hospital at Glenview, but is now home recuperating.

Pinned beneath debris

Coleman told state police that his car went out of control and swerved to one side of the road, crashing into the culvert before he could right the machine. The automobile was greatly damaged and Miss Larson was pinned in the debris.

The climax of the four-day carnival to be staged by the Arlington Heights Community Council will be the presentation of the program and fireworks the night of July 4th, at 8:15.

George Glow, master of ceremonies, will present the high school concert band and mixed chorus directed by D. G. Costain, in a program of patriotic and military marches and vocal selections from popular musical comedies. Festivities will be held on the ball diamond directly in front of the grandstand in Recreation Park.

Special tribute will be paid to the Red Cross in appreciation of the splendid service they have given. Members of the armed forces from Arlington and surrounding communities who are home on leave and furlough will be introduced.

Special baton twirling exhibitions will also be given by Doris Pape and Jean Schroeder, former high school twirling stars, and the regular twirling team with the Arlington band.

There will be lots of room for all friends and guests of Arlington townspeople on the spacious lawn of Recreation Park and no charge is to be made for this entertaining program and the fireworks to follow.

All band and chorus members, baton twirlers and soloists are to meet at the field house Saturday night at 8:45 for rehearsal. Bring guests.

Redwings play twice

In keeping with the spirit of the local July 4 celebration, two of the best baseball games of the season have always been presented by the Redwings and this year will not be an exception.

On Sunday, July 1, the Oak Park Elks, who defeated the Redwings 2-0 early in the season before the weather stopped playing of any games for 5 consecutive Sundays, return to try a repeat performance.

The Redwings, strengthened by the return of Don Peters at shortstop, will present their strongest lineup of the year to erase the earlier loss.

On July 4, the Nash Motor team of Kenosha will be the feature attraction. Last year the Kenosha club won 37 out of 42 games and up to the present time is well on its way to another exceptional record, having won six out of seven games, losing only the opening game of the season at Jansville.

Both games coming up have possibilities of being the best of the year and baseball fans are urged to be on hand to give their vocal support to the local club.

The pitching assignments will be handled by Jim Ladd and George Schaefer. With good fielding support and power at the bat the Redwings will have a good chance to turn in two victories.

Following the Redwing game Sunday the local American Legion Juniors, boys under 17, will play the Chicago Cardinals from the Northwest side of the city. This is a chance to see some of the future Redwings in action. Do not forget double header Sunday, one game July 4.

Cub all-star game

At 6:30 P. M. on July 4th two picked All-Star Cub Scout baseball teams will take the field on the softball diamond in Recreation Park. These boys represent the cream of the talent in the big Cub Scout baseball league and a snappy exhibition of the Great American Game is guaranteed.

The boys have been chosen for their hitting and fielding abilities, regardless of age or years of affiliation with the group. The opposing teams will be under the guidance of the two veteran coaches of the Cub Scout loop, Ben Cochran and Mac McAuliffe.

The chips are really down for this game and all who wish to see a spirited and sporting game are invited to attend.

A regularly scheduled game will also be played at the park at 7:00 p. m. on Tuesday, July 3, between the Cub Scouts Lions and Webelos.

Opening Sunday; big program for July fourth

War memorial and recreation fund will benefit

All citizens of Arlington Heights are asked to leave their cars at home July 4, thereby providing parking space in the vicinity of the park for visitors.

"Arlington Heights is ready for its annual celebration," announced Chairman Bauman Monday. "The reports received from the various committees assure a well planned program. With the net receipts going to the two civic funds, I expect not only the usual large crowds, but a generous response by the local people in the purchase of the donation tags and outright subscriptions."

There will be no raffle prizes but those who customarily purchase a book of tickets in such community events have the opportunity of subscribing to the fireworks fund that makes possible the big pyrotechnical display July 4. This is a feature that in past years has brought people from miles around. Due to the possible inclement weather that evening it is necessary that fireworks cost be underwritten independent of the general receipts. An opportunity is being given to 300 Arlington citizens to sponsor this part of the celebration.

Business firms are kicking in their usual amounts to the credit of the general fund and it is expected that with a break in the weather the War Memorial Fund will be given a big boost. (At present it is $3,600) and the share going to the recreation fund will make possible an even larger summer time and recreational program.

Concessions are expected to be open Sunday afternoon.

Parade at 9:30

Parade will assemble at South school at 9:30 a. m. Step off at 10:00 o'clock. The line of march will be east on South st. to Duntion, north to Miner, east to Belmont, south to Campbell (stub st.) into Recreation Park.

Parade formation: Police Escort, Massed Colors of V. F. W., American Legion, Lions Club, and Trade and Civic, Servicemen and Women and Veterans of World War II, American Legion, V. F. W. and their Auxiliaries, Community Council, Lions Club, Trade and Civic, Crystal Lake V. F. W. Drum Corps, Red Cross, Bundles for America, Fire Dept., Aux. Firemen, their Auxiliaries, Cub Scouts and Scouts, Boy Scouts and Scouts, High School Band, Girl Scouts, Brownies, Campfire Girls, School Children, contestants in costume contest, floats, etc.

Also expected in the parade will be representation of overseas vets and motorized equipment of the PW camp south of Arlington Heights under the direction of Capt. Reid.

The program will commence at approximately 11:00 o'clock, commencing with an invocation by a local pastor. A prominent speaker will give an address for the occasion.

There will be selections by the Crystal Lake V. F. W. Drum Corps and the Arlington Heights high school band. The Cub Scouts will be presented with the Eisenhower medals for their participation in the recent waste paper drive.

Also, prizes will be awarded to the best dressed contestants in the costume parade which will be judged by three local business men—Wm. Neumann, Frank Leth and Matt Masny. As an added attraction there will be an exhibition of horsemanship by Petra Hansen, daughter of Arthur Hansen, manager of Creamery Package Mfg. Co.

Dancing two nights

Dancing at the Arlington Heights field house with plenty of dances for all unescorted girls is one of the features of the annual Fourth of July celebration in the town. A bus full of aviation cadets from Glenview airport will be guests at the dance, assuring plenty of men "stags" at the affair.

Special feature of the dance is the $50 door prize to be awarded each night to some lucky person. Wally Hermes 5 piece orchestra will play from 9-12 with tickets at 50 cents including the tax. All servicemen in uniform will be admitted free.

Arlington Heights War Memorial will benefit from dance proceeds. Tickets can be purchased at various business houses around town, plus at the door of the field house.

Announce program for Des Plaines camp meet

On Sunday morning, July 1, at 10:30, Bishop Schuyler E. Garth of Madison, Wisconsin, will open the annual Summer Assembly and Camp Meeting at Des Plaines. With a greater emphasis on youth and with church leaders of the nation appearing on the speakers' platform, Bishop Garth will set the keynote for the two-week program which continues daily until July 15.

This is the 86th year of the Methodist gatherings in the famous old tabernacles which have been hosts to evangelists and church leaders of history, among them Billy Sunday, Gypsy Smith, and the late Merton S. Rice. This year a broad program, inspiring in its concern with the interests of the generation of young people whose ideals must stand and bear fruit in a world too heavy with war and its aftermath, will attract as many as 3500 in an evening. Many ministers will lend their influence to this project.

Youth meet features
In charge of youth activities during the Assembly will be the Rev. Allen Porter McCaul of Wheaton church, Evanston. Highlights of this part of the program are the meetings scheduled for Sunday evenings, July 1, 8 and 15 with a special all-afternoon occasion of games and sports, including swimming, on Saturday, July 14, followed by a free weiner roast at 7 o'clock and a huge camp fire service at 9 o'clock.

The youth meetings will feature an all-conference youth orchestra and leading artists. The church and Camp leaders will address the young people's gatherings.

Woman's program and music
The Institute of the Woman's Society of Christian Service is scheduled for mornings and afternoons, July 11, 12 and 13. Dean is Mrs. Oliver R. Aspegren, Evanston.

The music program, which will combine choirs and soloists from all over Chicago—will have a special sacred concert by the Lindblom choir on Sunday afternoon, July 8—is under the direction of Jewel Martin Lovejoy, director of Wesley Memorial Hospital Nurses' choir and widely known in church music work.

The Camp Ground is host to youth groups, institutes, summer camps, and religious-recreational gatherings of many denominations all season until into October. President of the institution is Raymond G. Kimbrell, George F. Witt is secretary-treasurer.

Home building picks up again in Prospect Hts.
5 new houses only a starter says realtor
Here we go again... once more hammers will pound, saws will grind, mixers will churn mortar, bricks will be laid and houses will go up. All this is possible because application for priorities for the construction of privately built homes, approved by the National Housing Agency and the WPB under the H-2 program are now being accepted by the Federal Housing Administration.

Smith and Dawson, having applied for 20 units under the operative builders plan, expect to start operations on five homes within the very near future. According to Carlton Smith, the originator and developer of Prospect Heights, one of these homes will be placed on Elmhurst road, next to the Community church, one each on West Willow and Circle avenue, with the remaining two on Elmhurst avenue. These new homes will be on the order of the homes already built in this community and will cost $8,000 each.

Smith and Dawson ceased building homes here when defense workers homes were required to be built of a caliber inimical to the interests of the property owners. Rather than stamp the community as a defense home area Carlton Smith closed his construction business and devoted his full time to real estate.

William K. Divers, regional NHA representative, recently stated that he hopes to secure a larger quota of homes for the Chicago area so that at least 1,000 priorities for all grades of builders could be made available monthly until all restrictions are removed and no longer needed.

If Mr. Divers is successful in his overall plan for remedying the housing shortage, Prospect Heights will expand rapidly, for by the time Smith and Dawson have erected the first five homes the balance requested will have been processed and priorities granted.

Inquiry revealed that there are about 25 lots left for sale, practically all residential. Many owners of the lots purchased during the past five years are ready to build and construction begun as soon as priorities can be obtained.

Mr. Smith said that he foresees a great many developments in the near future. He has approximately 50 inquiries every week regarding new homes and has 10 families who are ready to build.

Donajean Freeman and Leon Appel marry
St. Theresa church, Palatine, was the setting of the beautiful wedding of Miss Donajean Freeman, daughter of Mrs. Emil Gieseke, Palatine, who became the bride of Pfc. Leon Appel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guido Appel of Sleepy Eye, Minnesota, Sunday afternoon, June 17. The wedding took place at two o'clock with the Rev. Wm. Murray performing the impressive double-ring ceremony.

The bride was beautifully attired in a bridal gown fashioned with a white satin bodice and a white chiffon skirt with a train which had lace inserted butterflies with beaded bodies. The finger-tip veil was held in place by a beaded crown. She carried an arm bouquet of red roses and wore a gold cross, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Edna Porep, a friend of the bride, served as bridesmaid. She was dressed in a blue net gown and carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses. She wore a head band of roses to match. She also wore a gold cross, a gift of the bride.

Pfc. Ronald Bang, a friend of the bridegroom, stationed at Chanute Field, Ill., acted as best man.

The bride's mother wore a rose pink silk dress and a corsage of gardenias.

Set opening of Plum Grove Woodlands

The 1945 opening of Plum Grove Woodlands south of Palatine, that beautiful heavily wooded virgin forest, is being announced today by Wm. H. DePue, realtor.

Mr. DePue says that with building prospects so near that there has been a decided increase in inquiries for homesites. It seems that with all the publicity being given on homes of tomorrow with its permaclass picture windows, advances made in heating and insulating, those beautiful ultra-efficient kitchens, the ultra-modern, beautiful bathrooms—with a laundry that is a joy to look at and a thrill to operate, a walk in deep freeze and hundreds of other innovations that soon are to be available, a great number of people are heralding the day by looking for an ideal location for that glorious home.

It was to take care of that demand that Plum Grove Woodlands is being offered for sale with large spacious homesites landscaped by nature with old oak, hickory, elm and linden trees, hills and ravines, promontories overlooking a babbling stream and wildflowers galore.

And to aid and assist prospective homeowners in achieving the ultimate in their desires Mr. DePue has engaged a nationally known architect, B. J. Bruns of Chicago. Mr. Bruns has spent years in the architectural field and some of the most beautiful homes and stores in Chicago are a credit to his ability.

Mr. Bruns has spent much time in Plum Grove Woodlands and designed 25 beautiful homes, each one for a specific location in the Woodlands where its charm will lend to the environment. They include ranch type, colonial, cape cod and modern. They are on display at the Plum Grove office at Plum Grove road at Salt Creek and you are cordially invited to inspect them.

Mr. Bruns said "I have always had a warm spot in my heart for Palatine and have always wanted to live in that beautiful community for the past 20 years. I am no stranger in Palatine. I designed and supervised the building of the Lutheran school there about 20 years ago."

Mr. DePue invites the prospective homeowner as well as the investor to look at Plum Grove contained in a half page ad on page 16 of this issue.

Piano recital

The piano recital given by the pupils of Miss Celia Hausman last Tuesday evening in the Methodist Hall, and witnessed by a large and attentive audience, was the usual interesting and entertaining affair. The performance of the pupils and the interest shown by the parents and friends are gratifying to the teacher for the patience and efforts required to obtain such splendid results.

Seek sugar stamps to provide pop stand at festival

The Arlington Heights community council has run up against a snag in its plans for a completely successful Fourth of July celebration. Unless ration stamps for 200 pounds of sugar can be obtained there will be no pop stand at the carnival.

The old refreshment counter is a standby of any festival and the council committee is attempting to draw excess sugar stamps from local residents in order to provide a complete program for the 4-day celebration.

Any families having extra sugar stamps are asked to send them to H. B. Evans, council treasurer, at the Arlington Heights bank. If 40 stamps can be collected, netting 200 pounds, the pop stand is a sure thing.

Children flock to playground

New registrations for the playground at Recreation Park have brought the total up to 555 children. Total attendance for the morning activities for the week of June 18 was estimated at 838. Rainy weather on Wednesday forced the children indoors for a great part of the morning.

The tennis class which was rained out met again on Friday. A new division has been made for the tennis classes according to age. Those who are 10 and under meet for their lesson on Tuesday and those 11 years old and over on Wednesday morning. A tennis tournament will be held in a few weeks to determine the Park champion.

On Thursday morning, July 5 the Bowman Dairy Company will present free movies for the children at 10 o'clock in the Field House. The first part of the program will show how milk is purified and bottled, etc., and the last half of the program will feature cartoons and athletic pictures. The movies are in color, a new feature this year.

A boys' horseshoe pitching contest will be held Thursday, June 28 and a girls' horseshoe contest on Friday, June 29. Both singles and doubles will be included with ribbons awarded to the winners in each age division.

Armed Forces Institute or take and pass the tests given by this agency in these courses; (4) If you still lack sufficient credits have the Armed Forces Institute collect a complete record of your specialized training, work experience, etc. to be sent to the school for evaluation and if this training has a counterpart in high school work you will receive two units for each 12 weeks of this training; (5) If you still lack some units either take enough courses in extension from the Armed Forces Institute to complete the requirement or take their test of general educational development with hopes of ranking high enough to qualify.

There are three persons to deal with, namely the educational services officer or the orientation officer of the man's service organization, the high school principal, and the official of the Armed Forces Institute. All men lacking credits for graduation should at least have the school and the Armed Forces Institute together determine how he stands in regard to possible graduation.

IT'S TIME FOR YOUR PRESSURE COOKER TO HAVE A

"Coming Out" Party...

CLEAN IT UP NOW... AND BE READY FOR C-DAY (Canning Day)

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

- 1 Be sure your pressure gauge is accurate. Have it tested. Some manufacturers and colleges will check gauges if you send them in.
- 2 To eliminate any storage or cooking odors or taste, put water in pressure cooker to 1-inch level. Toss in a big handful of potato peelings. Heat for 15 minutes at 15-pounds pressure. Cool. Wash kettle, pans, and racks in hot, soapy water. Rinse and dry.
- 3 If your canner is aluminum, avoid using strong soaps or harsh scouring powders. Remove stains from aluminum canners with a paste of whiting and vinegar. If you have a porcelain enameled steel canner, use water instead of vinegar.
- 4 Wash kettle in hot, soapy water but don't immerse cover in water—the pressure gauge won't like it. Just wipe cover with a soapy cloth and then a clean, damp one. Dry thoroughly. If necessary, clean edges of cover and kettle with whiting and vinegar. Dried food or scale formed by hard water on either edge may prevent a tight seal—allow steam to leak out.
- 5 Clean pet cock openings and safety valve frequently by drawing a string or narrow strip of cloth through them. Keep opening of the steam gauge clean with a toothpick.

Remember, your pressure cooker is a weapon of war. Care for it—share it!

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 24, was:
"IS THE UNIVERSE, INCLUDING MAN, EVOLVED BY ATOMIC FORCE?"

The Golden Text was:
"The earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein" (Ps. 24: 1).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:
"Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord, or being his counsellor hath taught him? ... To whom then will ye liken me, or shall I be equal? saith the Holy One. Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things, that bringeth out their host by number: he calleth them all by names by the greatness of his might, for that he is strong in power; not one faileth" (Isa. 40: 13, 25, 26).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:
"God creates and governs the universe, including man. The universe is filled with spiritual ideas, which He evolves, and they are obedient to the Mind that makes them ... Infinite Mind creates and governs all, from the mental molecule to infinity. This divine Principle of all expresses Science and art throughout His creation, and the immortality of man and the universe. Creation is ever appearing and must ever continue to appear from the nature of its inexhaustible source" (pp. 295, 507).

Important notice to all girl scout parents

The Girl Scouts have been assigned a prominent place in the fourth of July parade and it is hoped that they can make as fine a showing as they did on Memorial Day. All girls who can march are asked to meet at the South school at 9:30 a. m. on Wednesday, the fourth of July.

According to the original plans of the Arlington Heights Scout Council, it was hoped that gas might be secured for a bus or for individual cars. Several members of the board have approached the problem of transportation from every possible angle. Feeling sure that a solution could be found, the plans for Day Camp proceeded. After exhausting every possibility the committee finds the allotment they received will barely cover the transporting of food, equipment and the camp staff. Since the camp will be held at Elk Grove, many of the older girls will use their bicycles.

Collectively the gas required is a sizeable amount, individually it is very little. Will anyone who can drive on one or more of the days please call Mrs. H. J. Gregg, phone 1422 immediately? More information about Day Camp will appear in next week's paper.

Night Shift ON THE FOOD FRONT

THEY DID IT BEFORE— THEY CAN DO IT AGAIN

With Farmall Tractor Power

THROUGHOUT the Spring, from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard, worried farmers searched the skies for signs of clear weather, but the cold rains fell relentlessly.

For more than a month the seed should have been germinating in the warm soil. Millions of acres lay unplanted because the ground was too wet for preparation of the seed bed and too cold for germination of the seed.

Only a generation ago there could have been but one outcome—crop shortage and food scarcity. Nature allows scant time for planting when the warm sun waits till late May or June before drying the soggy soil. Horses are too slow and tire too quickly to get the job done then.

But the farmers remember May of 1943—only two years ago—when their fast, untiring tractors averted crop failure. Then, too, rains flooded the fields and the month was all but spent before they could go in on the land and plant.

In 1943, most farmers drove their tractors from dark to dark, and longer. Many planted around the clock, working in two or three shifts. They made one of the greatest crops in history.

In today's war-torn world—with hunger and disease already stalking many peoples—even one major crop failure could bring famine. This is why the sound of tractors and planting machinery was heard, day and night, from the Plains states to the Eastern seaboard—why headlights stabbed the darkness over the fields.

America's farmers are doing it again, in spite of an unprecedented combination of adverse circumstances—bad weather, shortages of machines and shortages of manpower. For the second time in three years, they are relying upon their tractor-powered machines to help rescue large areas of the world from catastrophe. More of these tractors are products of International Harvester than of any other company.

Better Butter

The strong flavor often noticed in homemade butter can be prevented by churning sweet cream which has been pasteurized. Butter made in that way keeps better than that made from raw ripened cream.

LET'S NOT DESERT G.I. JOE ON HIS LAST LAP TO TOKYO

Orville Schaeffer, 118 South Mitchell Ave., a pupil at St. Peter's Lutheran School, created the above poster, in the Poster Project sponsored by the Arlington Heights 7th War Loan Committee.

Dear Neighbor:

We're nearing the finish line on the 7th War Loan drive. Reports from headquarters indicate that as a nation we're behind in E bond sales. I haven't the exact figures for Arlington Heights, but I understand we're making a good showing. Canvassers records are being turned in daily to the Committee and it takes time to check back. Because the Treasury Department is anxious to have all pledges turned into actual sales, arrangements have been made to count all purchases made during the first week of July. Therefore if you haven't yet got around to buying, the final day for the Mighty 7th is July 7th.

Our house-to-house canvass is nearly complete and the Victory Volunteers are making calls on those folks they've missed. The Stonegate report is in, the canvass being in the capable hands of Peter B. Atwood. Up in Sherwood, Ben K. Babbitt, the chairman, tells me that Wm. C. Barkhausen has done all the work, and with excellent returns.

Frank H. Meyer, Chairman of a North side group, claims his co-workers, Mrs. Elmo Williams and Miss Laura McElhose, as the most efficient in the drive, and Mrs. Noyes tells me you couldn't find more loyal, untiring workers than Mrs. Orville Baldwin, Mrs. Jim McElhose, Mrs. W. L. Fellingham, and Mrs. Roy Lawbaugh.

in charge of the Northwest side, have done a thorough and complete canvass of their section. Can't give you a complete list of their workers as Mrs. Shanklin is out of town, and it wouldn't be fair to name only a few. Nevertheless, our hats are off to the men and women who did the work in this part of town. You've done a good job.

And you never have to worry about the kind of a job Henry J. Schroeder does—it's always tops. Hank is faithful to the finish, as conscientious as they come, and when his work is done, it's done to the very best of his ability. Can't give you names of his corps of Victory Volunteers as I haven't been able to get him on the phone, but the Committee extends sincere thanks to every one of you who helped Mr. Schroeder cover the Northeast side of town.

I'll have facts and figures for you next week, and I'm hoping we can point to another Good Neighbor job well done. In the meantime, in the words of this week's poster—"Let's not desert G. I. Joe on his last lap to Tokyo—BUY BONDS."

Your Neighbor.

Start refunds on income tax

Nigel D. Campbell, Collector of Internal Revenue, stated today that his office has started the processing of refunds of overpayments of 1944 income tax. A minimum of 10,000 refunds a day are being processed and Mr. Campbell said that the entire operation would be completed by October 1.

Approximately one million refunds are due the taxpayers in the First Illinois District, which comprises the northern 26 counties of the State. This year the refunds are not being processed in alphabetical order. The Collector asks that taxpayers refrain from telephoning or corresponding with the office relative to these refunds. The work will be expedited as fast as possible, and letters and telephone calls only add to the work of the office and slow up the orderly process.

Mr. Campbell also stated that a great number of taxpayers at the present time are forwarding checks in payment of income tax without forwarding the bill sent to them by the Collector's office. This causes delay and confusion and often-times causes duplicate bills to be sent to taxpayers. He said that he could not impress too strongly the point on the Public's mind that in forwarding money to his office, they at all times should send the bill, or if it is lost, a letter of explanation as to what the payment is for.

Visits here

Mrs. F. E. Briggs, formerly of Arlington Heights and now of Sonoma, Calif., is spending several weeks visiting relatives and friends in the midwest. She has just concluded a visit at Earlville, Ill., was in Arlington Heights, and has now gone up to Bismarck, North Dakota, for a week. She will then travel to Seattle, Washington, for a few weeks with her son, Ralph, and his wife, Mrs. Briggs will then return to California.

Just Around the Corner

Dear Jane:
Have you ever considered what a difference the mail can make in one's day?

You wake up in the morning comparatively free and light-hearted, only to find yourself at noon in the throes of woe—all because of a few written words that came in the mail. Fortunately, for all of us, the very opposite is also true.

I had intended today to write of the usual chit-chat, but a letter from my friend, Mabel, up Palatine way, has changed all that. It set me to thinking seriously, and anything I might have written before would appear ludicrous now.

Mabel enclosed in her letter one from her sister; also some snapshots of two handsome young men, both of them in uniform. They are her sister's sons. But the pictures were taken last year, and now the one who wears the Army wings—is gone.

It is not difficult to read the heartbreak between the lines in the mother's letter to her sister, nor in Mabel's letter to me. Yet, there is something more in those letters—evidence of indomitable courage and great faith.

I'm sure you will be impressed, as I am, with this Mother's attitude, and I quote her letter in part: "I wrote Ruth (her sister-in-law, whose son has long been missing in action) and told her perhaps Bud and Dave would get together somewhere in the great beyond and get to know each other. Calvin Coolidge, in writing to a friend who had lost his son, said: 'To your son and my son who, by the grace of God, have the privilege of being boys throughout Eternity.' There are thousands of boys all over the world who will always remain just boys in the memories of their folks. If out of their deaths could come a permanent peace the price wouldn't be too high, as they would have laid down their lives to save the lives of the little boys now playing happily around their homes. If the older men of the world can't do better than they have those little boys will go in 25 years, and it will be ten times worse. I hope all the blood that has been shed and the terrible loss of this war will bring about a lasting peace."

There is something mighty fine in the make-up of a person who, though grief-stricken, is able to extend consolation and hope to others in like circumstances. There is a special pathos, it seems to me, about a man's sorrow. Because he is a man he is expected to hold up and not show it. But that doesn't mean his grief is any less. "He went out in the yard and saw a four leaf clover, and he cried. He always picked them and put them in our letters to Dave." Mabel's sister writes of the boy's father, and then continues, "I am enclosing a copy of a poem I cut out sometime ago, little thinking some day it would mean anything to us. Somehow you just keep thinking it can't happen to your boy."

"The Navigator is Young" by Mabel Poe Blyth

Dear God, tonight we learned the truth. You have a boy up there who's new in Heaven; He's wearing Navigator's Wings which shine like new

So lately were they given.

Be kind to him, Our Father, when he calls;

Forgive the rakish angle of his cap

For he is so young, so very young

You'll see.

He comes to You with man's estate untapped.

He loved this world You gave; loved living in it,

He loved Your stars. He learned them all by name

For use in one last journey—Our only Son!

Can living on, without him, be the same?

His name is Don. Please write it deep and clear

Upon the Great White Ledger that You keep,

Watch over him; we trust him to Your care.

Then, with compassion, look on us who weep.

In the face of such grief I can find nothing to say. Only those who have suffered thus can know, or have the right to sympathize.

I would like to believe, however, that those who love beyond the world can not be separated by it.

That death can not kill what never dies—character survives; goodness lives; love is immortal.

Until next week, with love, Mary.

P. S. This poem was written by Lt. Don H. Blyth's mother on the night she learned he had been killed in the crash of a B-17 bomber which developed mechanical trouble after a target run over Ludwigshafen, Germany. It was the ship's first mission. Lt. Blyth was the navigator and the only one killed in the crash over France on the homeward trip. The poem appeared in the April issue of McCall's magazine.

Set dates for antique and hobby show next year

Plans are already under way in Arlington Heights for the 2nd annual Antique and Hobby show, which is sponsored by the Women's Society of the Methodist church. This year the show will be held on the 26th, 27th and 28th of September.

Hobbies and collections, and the booths of the antique dealers will be exhibited at the Methodist church and again the quilt displays and the table settings will be at St. John's church.

Some of last year's dealers will again have booths in the 1945 show and many new dealers are being contacted in order to have a wider variety of antiques and choice pieces of glassware, dishes, furniture and lamps on display and for sale.

There will be new and unusual hobbies and collections on exhibit in addition to a few of the favorites from last year's show and the committee hopes to have several foreign exhibits including one from India. They also are planning a room devoted to hobbies and collections interesting to the men of the community.

The table settings will be entirely new and different in the 1945 show. Mrs. Hugh Gilman, chairman of this feature, has chosen the intriguing theme of "A Table A Month" for the table settings and promises something unusual in decorations and china.

The general public is invited to enter hobbies, collections and other exhibits.

Thursday evening, June 28, Arlington Heights chapter No. 992 O. E. S. will have a guest night. Worthy matrons and worthy patrons will serve in the various stations.

Mrs. Mae Nelson, worthy matron of Des Plaines chapter and Alexander Sims, Jr. of Rosedale chapter will be in the East. Mrs. Amanda Nichols of Savannah chapter, Savannah, Mo., will be guest of honor. A good attendance is desired.

At the close of the meeting June 14 officers and members joined in celebrating the birthday and wedding anniversary of the Worthy Patron, Raul Peeters.

Celia Hausman, Grand Lecturer, served as marshal Monday evening, June 25, on grand lecturer's night.

Bronze star

Award of the bronze star to S-Sgt. Henry Brzostowski of Palatine was announced this week. The award was made to Henry, who is stationed in Germany with the 2nd armored division. The citation reads:

"Staff Sergeant Henry L. Brzostowski, 36305862, 41st Armored Infantry Regiment, United States Army. For meritorious service on 10 October 1944 in Germany, in connection with military operations against the enemy. On 10 October 1944 near the Siegfried line had been breached, but the tanks that were supporting the infantry were woefully short of ammunition. A heavy German counterattack was expected momentarily.

"S-Sgt. H. Brzostowski, a supply sergeant, by his disregard for personal fatigue and safety, replenished the ammunition under extremely adverse conditions. The ground was a quagmire and the vehicle in which the ammunition was being hauled was taxed to the utmost. Several times the vehicle bogged down, but was extricated by the strenuous efforts of S-Sgt. Brzostowski.

"In spite of enemy artillery and mortar fire, S-Sgt. Brzostowski delivered the ammunition to each of the tanks and enabled the friendly force to properly prepare for the enemy counterattack."

His address is S-Sgt. Henry Brzostowski, 36305862, 41st Armored Inf Regt., APO 252, 4 PM, New York, N. Y.

President Truman might take over this camp as his place to rest during the summer months. It's not official yet, but we expect him to pay us a visit any time after the big three meeting."

His address is Pfc. John Dziadula, Marine Barracks, 8th & Eye St S E, Washington 25, D. C.

Writing from an island in the Pacific where he is guarding oil wells is S1c Robert Briggs, formerly of Arlington Heights.

"Had quite an experience the other day. A monkey jumped on my shoulder and then pushed through my crop of whiskers that I have been so diligently raising. The crew named the monkey 'Sadie' and took motion pictures of her playing with the whiskers. We call the film 'Sadie going through thick and thin! I hope to bring Sadie home with me.'"

Mrs. Briggs answered her son's letter with the notation, "You're monkey enough for me. Leave the native monkeys alone."

His address is S1c Robert Briggs, 4 PFO, San Francisco, Calif.

From the Pacific where he is stationed with the 27th Marines comes word of Kenneth Birks of Palatine.

"Just recently I received the paper that you must have a written request if the subscription is to be continued. Please consider this letter as my request.

"I look forward to getting the paper and reading what's going on back home, where I hope to be soon. Also, 'With Uncle Sam' is greatly appreciated. It's great to be able to follow old school buddies all over the world. I'm sure I'm not alone when I say it's a great paper, a great town and thanks a lot."

His address is Cpl. K. G. Birks, 4 PFO, San Francisco, Calif.

From a base out in the Pacific comes word of Elroy Dawson of Arlington Heights.

"Nothing doing around here with nothing to write about. All you see, no matter which way you look, are water and coral. Sure felt honored to be named for the traveling bank. It's certainly wonderful to know the folks at home are thinking of you."

His address is Pfc. Elroy F. Dawson, USMCR, 4 PFO, San Francisco, Calif.

Gems of thought

PRAYER

Prayer is not overcoming God's reluctance; it is laying hold of His highest willingness.

—Trench.

Remember, whatever warrant you have for praying, you have the same warrant to believe your prayers will be answered.

—J. Phillips.

Are we benefited by praying? Yes, the desire which goes forth hungering after righteousness is blessed of our Father, and it does not return unto us void.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

Let not him who prays, suffer his tongue to outstrip his heart; nor presume to carry a message to the throne of grace, while that stays behind.

—South.

The prayer that begins with trustfulness, and passes on into waiting, will always end in thankfulness, triumph, and praise.

—A. Maclaren.

Who rises from prayer a better man, his prayer is answered.

—George Meredith.

It Happened Here

The scissor's grinder goes by and we are always constrained to run to the window the nothing needs sharpening; the tinkle of his little bell harks back to old street cries and the call of vendors, so we'd be lonely if the grinder became obsolete. We suppose he lives somewhere, somehow, and perhaps has money in the bank, but we feel a curiosity about such people and about peddlers, especially the old coddler who visits us periodically; his wares are pretty good but not neatly arranged in his pack and each article he offers us is "hard to get now." In the recent June frosts we questioned him about his comfort. "O, I have a little apartment," he said, "and one of these here new wood stoves, you know, and I always keep warm, any weather, and I haven't had to buy a stick of wood in over two years. First off, I didn't know how to manage so I had to buy fire wood, and now I just pick it up; there's always boxes and stuff thrown out around stores and timber along the I. C., and, of course, fallen branches or a tree down. I just load my little car and work the stuff up at home and there I am as cozy as you please." There should be a Dickens to write The Woodgatherer On Woodlawn Ave.

—SAMUSER.

For injuries he says he sustained in an automobile accident in Des Plaines August 13, 1943, Frank McKnight has sued the Dart Transit Co. and Viola Scott in Circuit court for $10,000 damages. He charges that on this date the Dart truck was running on Higgins Ave. and Viola Scott's car was being driven on Mannheim road at Higgins. McKnight's car was on Higgins road and was stopped for the traffic sign. The other cars both collided with his car causing him serious injuries.

Food supply below last year, but above normal

The over-all food supply for civilians this year will be from five to seven percent smaller, on a per capita basis, than last year's record consumption, according to the War Food Administration, but it will be about two to four percent above the average level in 1935-39. The reduction comes largely in supplies of pork, lard, butter, other fats and oils, sugar, and canned fish. Smaller supplies of these foods greatly increase the problems involved in their distribution throughout the country. Larger non-civilian requirements than in 1944 are in prospect this year for canned fruits and vegetables, evaporated milk, and chicken, so supplies of these foods may be somewhat shorter. Among the items in larger supply for civilians than last year are eggs, fluid milk, skim milk by-products, commercial supplies of some fresh vegetables, canned fruit juices, fresh and frozen fish, and the grain products, with the exception of rice in some areas. Demand for some of these

Must act now to repel insect invasion

Twenty-five per cent of all victory garden crops are ruined by the attack of garden crop insects. Moreover, these attacks are more and more serious due to the arrival of new species. The Mexican bean beetle has been with us fewer than 10 years, but today it is giving more trouble than any other species. The European corn borer has been in Illinois for only a few years, but it already has reached the position of Enemy No. 1. The Japanese beetle has not yet invaded Illinois in numbers, but if it does it will be a very serious pest indeed.

It is highly desirable that farm and urban victory gardeners have a working knowledge of the life cycles, the overwintering quarters and the feeding habits of the more common and more destructive species and groups of garden insects. Armed with this knowledge, he will know when to expect them, how to hold them in check and how to prevent them from inflicting serious damage. Without this knowledge, he will wait until serious damage has been done before applying any control measures.

Most gardeners immediately recognize the larger bodied and less active species, such as the Colorado potato beetle, the imported cabbage worms and the tomato hornworms. Indeed, their size tends to simplify their control. It is the small-bodied and often very active groups and species, such as the flea beetles, the leafhoppers, the thrips and the cucumber beetles that are hardest to control. The aphids or plant lice are often unnoticed until they have reached such numbers that control is practically impossible.

Flea beetles, of which there are several species, are hard-shelled creatures about 1/16 inch long and very active. Most of the species are inconspicuous brown or black in color, but some are brilliantly striped. They pass the winter as adults in the soil or under rubbish in or near the garden. In early spring the adults attack radishes, cabbages and potatoes. Later they attack newly set tomato and egg plants as well as sweet corn and other crops. They eat small holes in or entirely through the leaves

Selection important in overseas packages

Officials of the Postal Affairs Section of the Navy Department recently issued a statement regarding the importance of proper selection of gifts for overseas mailing to Navy personnel. In answer to the question which frequently arises - "What Shall I Send?" - the Navy Mail Service stated that extensive surveys have shown that Navy personnel overseas above all want letters - letters giving local news and telling of things done and things planned. Secondly, they want objects with a personal, sentimental appeal such as photographs, snapshots, drawings made by their youngsters, and newspaper clippings that can be enclosed in these letters.

Gifts to send and not to send

An extensive survey has been taken of what sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen serving in forward areas want in their gift packages. Reports have also come in on the type of gifts WAVES, SPARS, and MARINES serving overseas prefer to receive from home.

Such surveys have shown that they positively know what they don't want. Foremost among the Don'ts are cakes, soft candies, cookies, cigarettes and fancy toilet kits. Foods such as candies and cakes that may have been their favorites when they were home are a battered mass of crumbs or moldy chocolate when they arrive at their overseas destination.

Following are lists of Do and Don't items to be remembered in the selection of overseas gifts: Do Mail for Men - pictures, canned luxury foods (olives, nuts, sardines, etc.), books, writing cases or portfolios, service war maps, pens, engraved identification tags, waterproof wallets, cigarette lighters. Do Mail for Women - pictures, books, play clothes, lingerie, stockings, gloves. Do Mail The Gift They Tell You They Want. Don't Mail to Anyone Overseas at Any Time soft candy, cakes, cookies, fancy toilet kits, cigarettes.

On ships and at shore stations there are stories which are well stocked with items such as soap, shaving creams, shaving kits, sewing kits, hair tonic, shampoo, lotions, cigarettes, candy, chewing gum, lipstick, cosmetics, and other personal items that can be easily and cheaply obtained when they are needed.

The limited space in a locker for storage of clothes and equipment does not permit many personal items being kept so don't load them down with things they will have to discard. The wisest thing to do; is to ask them what they want.

In the conduct of the war, there is no recognition of the seasons of the year and as far as mailing packages to Navy, Marine and Coast Guard personnel they may be mailed throughout the year. To assure a gift getting to its addressee, select wisely, wrap securely, and address correctly.

Female mosquitoes are the obnoxious kind

There are many different kinds of mosquitoes. Of the 135 species found in the United States, 32 have been found in Cook County and 22 of these are most common. We do not have the yellow fever mosquito but we do have a few of two species of the Anopheles mosquito which transmits malaria. These are recognized by their spotted wings and the tipped-up position of the body when resting - perpendicular to whatever surface upon which it clings, as if it were standing on its head.

So far, cases of malaria have occurred rarely in Cook County and mosquito abatement has been conducted largely because mosquitoes are a serious nuisance. Mosquitoes are annoying because of the bites which hurt, swell and itch.

Ravinia opens this week

The musical spotlight of the Midwest will be focused this week upon the gala opening of the tenth annual Ravinia Music Festival. In its beautiful woodland setting on Chicago's North Shore, the six weeks' series of Symphony music and one week of chamber music under the stars will have its premier performance of the season on Saturday evening, June 30, at 8:30 o'clock.

Desire Defauw, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra's permanent musical director and conductor, will lead the orchestra on the opening night when the program will be made up of music of Greta-Mottl, Brahms, and Chausson. Oscar Chausson, Mus. 2-c. violin, and Frank Miller, Mus. 2-c. cello, both of the U. S. Navy, will be the soloists. They will play Brahms' "Concerto for Violin and Cello." Chausson is on leave from the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and Miller is on leave from the NBC Symphony.

The first night audience (Sat., June 30) will be welcomed to the fourth annual Ravinia Festival by Percy B. Eckhart, president of the Ravinia Festival Association.

The series of 24 concerts, which constitute the season of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under the direction of outstanding guest conductors, will begin July 3. During these six weeks celebrated soloists will come to Ravinia Park to contribute their talents to the brilliant programs planned for the season.

Dorothy Maynor, noted American Negro Soprano, will be heard during the second week on July 10 and 14. On Tuesday, July 10, she will sing two songs from the War bonds are prizes in state garden contest

A 1945 "green thumb" contest for Illinois victory gardeners, with $500 in war bonds as state prizes, the winners of which will be eligible to compete for $2,400 in war bonds as national prizes, was announced by the Illinois War Council's victory gardens committee.

Lester J. Morris of St. Charles, chairman of the committee and of the National Victory Garden Institute, said "the contest is to stimulate planting of victory gardens and preservation of their products, both of which will be needed in 1945 more than in any previous war year." The contest, he said, will follow the pattern of last year's green thumb competition.

State prizes in the adult division, Norris said, will be: grand prize, $200 war bond; industrial and home garden first prize winners, $100 bond each; industrial and home garden second prize winners, $50 bond each.

State youth awards will be as follows in both high school and elementary school divisions: first incidental music for Goethe's "Egmont" by Beethoven, and her program for Saturday, July 14, will include Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro," "Oh What Comfort" from "The Seasons" by Haydn; "Air De Lia" from Debussy's "Le 'Enfant Prodigue'; "Invitation Au Voyage" by Duparc; and "Deuxes Le Jour" from the opera "Louise" by Charpentier.

Jakob Gimpel, gifted pianist, will be the soloist during the third week. He will play Beethoven's "Empower Concerto in E flat" on Tuesday, July 17. The following Saturday, July 21, he will play Rachmaninoff's "Piano Concerto No. 2."

During the fourth week, Erica Morini, noted Austrian violinist, will be heard on Tuesday, July 24, in Beethoven's "Concerto for Violin," and on Saturday, July 28, she will play the Glazounow "Violin Concerto."

The brilliant 17-year-old pianist, Leon Fleisher, will be the soloist during the fifth week. On Tuesday, July 31, he will play Brahms' "Concerto for Piano and Violin in D minor," and his Saturday, Aug. 4 performance will include Rachmaninoff's "Rhapsody on a Theme by Paganini" and Franck's "Symphonie Variations for Piano and Orchestra."

The opening program to be presented on Saturday evening (June 30) beginning at 8:30, follows:

Desire Defauw, Conductor, Greta-Mottl, Suite from the Ballet, "Cephale and Procris".

Brahms, Concerto for Violin and Cello (Soloists: Oscar Chausson, Mus. 2-c. Frank Miller, Mus. 2-c.) Chausson, Symphony in B Flat Major.

Kilowatt war

2 new OWI radios to broadcast to Pacific

Propaganda to Japs, music to Yanks is purpose

The thunder of six giant radio voices, beamed from the Pacific Coast, has been added by the Office of War Information to the guns of MacArthur and Halsey, backing up the United Nations fighting forces with an incessant outpouring of psychological warfare against the Japanese enemy.

Beamed from two new high frequency stations, at Delano and Dixon, California, programs designed not only to boost the morale of our far-flung forces, but to convince the Nipponese that the day of reckoning is at hand, soon are to issue in steady streams over the whole area from Manchukuo to the southernmost war fronts. The new transmitter is more powerful and far-reaching than any ever built by the enemy, have been rushed to completion by engineers of the OWI, two major broadcasting systems, was expected to start broadcasting about June 15, under present schedules. Inauguration of 200 kw broadcasts from the twin station at Dixon will begin almost immediately. In the meantime, the 50 kw equipment already operating in both stations is carrying on the psychological warfare against Japan. Both stations have been on the air at 50 kw since early last winter.

While there are but two stations, the one at Delano being operated by the Columbia Broadcasting System and that at Dixon by National Broadcasting Company, both for the OWI, each actually houses three high frequency transmitters. Each consists of a 200 kw and two 50 kw units. All are capable of delivering programs with great effectiveness. In each station the two 50 kw transmitters will be programmed together so that they operate as two voices carrying the same program while the 200 kw transmitter carries still another program with its vastly greater power. It is possible to send out the same program simultaneously on all three transmitters of each station, at their different frequencies to forestall jamming by the enemy.

No other broadcast stations in the world will have high frequency transmitters so powerful as the West Coast pair, with the single exception of the 200 kw Bethany Transmitter, operated by the Crosby Company for OWI, whose vacuum tubes also were built by Federal Telephone.

The facilities of these OWI stations will be shared by the Armed Forces Radio Service, and the Office of Inter-American Affairs. The broadcast warfare against the Japanese will penetrate the homeland and all points held by the enemy from Manchukuo to the extreme South Pacific.

In their performance the transmitters will be virtually alike. Operating at high frequencies designated by the Federal Communications Commission, they will be heard, by means of directional antennas, with greater strength far into enemy-held territories of the Pacific and Asia, as well as all of South America.

Food needed

Scouts vie for awards in victory garden work

Backing up President Truman's appeal for more gardens, the nation's Boy Scouts are embarked in a program to raise a half million gardens this summer. As the war is now centered in the Pacific, home front attention is centered on the growing food crisis here and abroad.

The Boy Scouts of America with its membership of 1,915,637 boys and leaders, are furnishing a substantial part of the additional manpower needed by farmers and commercial producers. Last year more than 300,000 Boy Scouts worked on farms, and several hundred thousand Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts had their own gardens. Many groups of Scouts went out from towns and cities on "day hauls" to work on farms, returning at night.

The National Victory Garden Institute has obtained General MacArthur's interest and is offering on his behalf a General MacArthur

Laundry marks solve many crimes in U.S.

Now laundry marks are aiding the police and FBI in tracing criminals. Often the law breakers leave no other clues behind them but such scant ones as handkerchiefs, shirts, and similar personal linens. But the laundry marks found on such washables often identify the criminal and bring him to justice.

One murdered person in New York state was so badly burned that the victim could not be recognized. But a piece of checked clothing indicated the presence of an indelible mark of the type used in laundry and cleaning plants, a police lieutenant discovered. The bit of fabric was treated and the number became visible. The police official looked up his vast collection of laundry marks and found the symbol. He paid the plant a visit, where the name and address of the unidentified victim were readily found in the records. Before long the murderer was in the hands of the law.

Originator of the ingenious bureau of laundry marks is Lieutenant Adam Yuleh, of the Nassau County, Long Island, New York, police. Over a period of several years he has enlarged his files until now they contain more than 250,000. Lt. Yuleh's laundry mark identification bureau has been found so valuable in apprehending criminals that many police departments throughout the country have adopted similar methods.

Laundries are cooperating with police departments in helping authorities compile collections of laundry symbols. Thus the innocent laundry mark, used in identifying the owners of linens, has been turned by law-enforcing agencies into an effective tool for tracing criminals.

Another crime solved by this method was an eastern bank robbery in June of 1936. The only clue was an article of clothing which had been left on the scene in which contestants must keep planting and harvest records to be submitted next fall.

Jr. Legion ball to get under way this Sunday

The George Poole "Fords", the Arlington Heights entry in the 9th district American Legion baseball competition, is opening their season Sunday. The Chicago Cardinals will furnish the opposition for the local boys and it is understood that they are a fast high class outfit.

Hume C. Young, commander of the Merle Guile Post, and George Poole, local Ford dealer, will conduct the ceremony of throwing and receiving the first ball.

The Arlington team has a sparkling and fast infield this year. Capt. "Ozzie" Aldrich will play first base. The other three infield positions will be capably taken care of by three Mt. Prospect lads—Gail Beck and the Willie brothers.

This game will be the second game of a double header, that will follow the Redwing game.

Donkey base ball

I never laughed so much in all my life! Were you there last year? That's the statement heard all over the N. W. side of Cook county. The people who saw the "Donkey Base Ball" last year have not forgotten and will be present again this year. Are you going to be there?

July 6th—that is the date. The George Poole "Fords"—the local Legion team will play a Mt. Prospect team—don't forget the date.

Last year's game was witnessed by the largest crowd of the year—Come out and support your favorite sons—It's your choice—Mt. Prospect or Arlington Heights.

Twilight golf

Now that regular golf weather has arrived and Mr. Prospect C. C. course has dried out enough to permit normal roll of the balls our golfers are beginning to get into their strides and 200 yard drives are no longer the exception. Approach shots generally seemed to act like rockets the way they kept going past the cups and over the greens until the boys got hot and used the shorter irons.

The notable thing about play June 21 was the near equality of play of opposed teams. Only 3 of the teams won more than half the 6 points available and only Oehler won as many as 4 points. That was appropriate since they are in last place because they have lacked a full team until now.

No player approached Ray Imig's low net score of the 15th but three men, Wolff, Kammien and H. Kokenhour, shot 37s.

Team standings as of June 22:
General Mfg. 24
First Natl. Bank 22 1/2
Miller's Tavern 22
Des Plaines Agency 20 1/2
Des Plaines Lbr. & Coal 18
Suburban Times 18
Spiegler's 16 1/2

Navy flier

Hunts subs in Atlantic and English Channel

Edward Hoffman home on leave

Now home on furlough after serving many months in the South America and England is 1st Lt. Edward Hoffman of Arlington Heights. Edward served aboard a Navy Liberator on anti-sub patrol over both the South Atlantic and the English channel.

"Our squadron was based at Natal, Brazil, one of the busiest airports of the ATC. Though the army had most of the facilities at Natal air station, we navy men were based in one corner.

"That was quite a station with planes of any and all types landing continuously. The ATC route to India, including all B-29s returning from 'the hump', went through Natal. There was always a hub of activity on the field. Most interesting sights were the B-29s returning from over the hump missions. Each mission is represented by a painted camel on the fuselage. Many of the planes were a mass of camels.

Seek subs

"Our job was hunting and watching for enemy subs. We'd usually cover an area between Natal and Ascension Island, or else, based temporarily on Ascension, we covered the route to Dakar, Africa. Our squadron had a record of sinking 6 subs, though I was never aboard any of the planes to those actions.

"When we'd sight a sub first action was to radio the sub's position, then attack. Most subs refused to submerge, and subject themselves to a merciless attack of depth charges. Instead they'd stay on the surface, firing at us with their deck guns. They downed one of our planes that way, but almost always the battle was in the plane's favor. Our attack was strafing until the sub sank.

"We always hated to be based, even temporarily, on Ascension. That island was my idea of nothing. Only outstanding feature of Ascension is a mass of rock. There was nothing else there, just rock. A British possession, Army engineers had blasted a long runway right down the middle of the 10 mile wide land. The British had declared the work impossible.

South America colorful

"It was plenty hot in Natal, though the dry heat was o. k. after you were used to it. Glass windows were hardly ever seen, but we had screens on our barracks. South America is a pretty country with its brightly painted buildings. You can see every color of the rainbow around you, with some buildings even painted in stripes.

"I visited Rio de Janeiro on a 5-day leave and found it a rich man's paradise. It is one of the most modern cities I've ever seen. There are loads of night clubs around, plus the famous Copacabana beach. That was the most popular resort there. It sure was luxury living in Rio those five days. We hit all the night spots, but found it strictly a town for rich men.

Move to England

"After 6 months at Natal we moved on to England, where our job was patrolling the English channel along the French coast. I liked England, in spite of the fog. One nice thing about the damp weather was the green grass growing everywhere. The sun never did have a chance to dry out any of the lawns.

"England was a nice station. There was a darn good Red Cross club at the base. A swimming pool was provided, plus the usual juke box, etc. There were plenty of English girls with whom to dance and get acquainted.

"Hikes and bike riding was a popular sport in England and I enjoyed the latter especially much. All England is one big bunch of small hills, with one green valley after another spreading out before you. It's a beautiful country and was a great change from South America.

20 years behind

"I saw many of the big cities in England and feel I know the geography there about as well as I do here. Most of the damage of the early raids of the Nazis has been cleaned up. But here and there you come upon an entire corner leveled, and realize the force of air power.

"One opinion I did form about the English people is that they are just 20 years behind the U. S.

They're all friendly, however, and seem content without many of our so called modern luxuries.

"We saw some of France while over there, especially Paris. We'd often land at some French airport when the fog closed in over the home field. But our trip to Paris was tops. It was just after V-E day when air tours were arranged to the continent.

"I visited Paris and saw everything you've ever read about—Eiffel Tower, Arc de Triomphe, Notre Dame, etc. One nice thing about Europe is seeing all the historic spots you've read about while going to school. In England, especially, we saw some churches 800 years old. Practically every city there had been touched by the fury of Nazi air raids. But, miraculously, many of the historic spots were undamaged.

Entered service June 14, 1943. He took boot training at Farragut, Idaho, then Norman, Oklahoma. He attended aerial gunnery school at Purcell, Oklahoma, then took operational training at Jacksonville, Florida.

In the picture above can be seen a part of Eddie's Liberator "Nite Hop". He reports to Whidbey Island, Washington, for further training aboard the new Navy Liberator, "The Privateer".

This plane is longer, has a bigger range and pay load, faster speed, and has the single rudder. "My job at Whidbey will be a 4 or 6 months course in getting acquainted with our new ship. I hope to earn a rate of plane captain."

Eddie expects to head for the Pacific the end of this year.

'16 down, 19 to go over Japan'

says B-29 man

Writing from the Marianas where he is based as a B-29 man is Lt. B. A. Field of Palatine. Bud and his crew have been bombing Tokyo and other Japanese industrial cities.

"Just got back from Tokyo, the second time in three days. Sure had a big laugh when we were on our way back from the target. We were taking some violent evasive action to get out of the range of the searchlights and it seems everything in the back started floating around, bouncing against me. We moved the stuff so we had a place to lay down and get some sleep on the way back.

"I've heard a lot of folks at home saying that the war's about over and that beating Japan is a push-over. Well, I just wish those people could go on one of these trips with us. Or perhaps they could be on the line when our ships come back filled with holes. Then they'd realize there is still a long fight ahead.

"I now have 16 missions in, with only 19 more to go. I still say I'll be home by Christmas."

His address is Lt. B. A. Field, 0-2064488, APO 246 Unit 2, % PM, San Francisco, Calif.

Returns home after wound on Okinawa

Now home on furlough after being wounded on Okinawa is Don Thompson of Palatine. Don arrived home 10 days ago from Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Denver, Colorado, and is spending his furlough with his wife, Fran, and son, Don, of Barrington, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Thompson of Palatine.

Don was wounded April 16 when his arm was broken by flying shrapnel.

"I had moved out of my foxhole in the morning to see whether I had killed any Japs during the night after throwing hand grenades at rustling noises. I stood there looking at the dead Nip, when the shell landed behind me.

"Next thing I knew I was on the ground and my arm was broken in two places. I came to and saw a captain nearby who was hit by the same burst of shrapnel. However, he lost both feet, so I felt pretty lucky.

"We had moved in on Okinawa two weeks before and advanced to this particular ridge. We never moved beyond this point as the enemy had us pinned down for 8 days.

"But I got all I wanted in those two weeks there on Okinawa. With shells whizzing overhead I had my fill, and hope I don't have to go through any more of it. You're not scared when you're up there, you're just terrified.

"The Nips were ahead of us throwing shells behind us. We could see many of them go over, waiting and hoping none of them would drop on our positions. The Nips never did hit anything in the valley behind our ridge, as there was nothing there except aid men, and they escaped injury.

"Oddest sight was the special Jap bombs that would float through the air. They were almost self-propelled, you might say. They'd move so slow you could see them coming. But what an explosion! They'd leave a crater 8 to 10 feet deep and throw up all kinds of rocks, dirt, etc. Lucky no one ever got hit while I was there."

Pfc. Thompson reports back to Denver July 11. Future plans are not known.

Wins citation for work in smashing Nazi line

Leonard Weidner included in group award

First Battalion Headquarters of the 36th Armored Infantry Regiment has announced from "Somewhere Inside Germany" that Pvt. Leonard Weidner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Weidner, Rt. 1, Box 254, Palatine, has been awarded the Presidential Citation Ribbon for outstanding service in combat against the enemy in Germany.

To add to the number of Battle Honor "First" already credited to the First Battalion, 36th Armored Infantry Regiment of the Third Armored "Spearhead" Division, this veteran armored infantry unit under the Command of Lieut. Col. William R. Orr, Albuquerque, New Mexico, recently became the first Battalion within the Division to receive a Presidential Citation.

The First Battalion was cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy in the engagement in September 1944 which has already entered the pages of Division history and gave the Third Armored Division the distinguished honor of being the first Allied Unit to breach the Siegfried Line and helped to give the Division its now famous name, "Spearhead."

"The 1st Battalion, 36th Armored Infantry Regiment, on 12 September 1944 was assigned the mission of supporting an armored task force in its drive to smash the defenses of the Siegfried Line. Anti-tank obstacles retarded the progress of armor, and the battalion was committed to overrun strongly fortified defensive positions overlooking the obstacles. In two days of fierce fighting against a determined enemy the 1st Battalion succeeded in overpowering enemy defenses and penetrating the first fortified belt of the 'west wall'."

"Over difficult terrain overlooking the second fortified belt this fighting force then attacked to force a bridgehead through the second belt of dragon's teeth. Vigorous hostile action was counterbalanced by an insuperable urge to close with and destroy the enemy wherever found. Against tremendous odds the battalion succeeded in establishing a bridgehead and for three days repulsed vigorous enemy counterattacks launched against it in an effort to break the battalion's foothold north of the dragon's teeth on critical terrain."

"On 18 September 1944, after infantry elements on the left and right failed to advance, the first Battalion was given the vital mission of withdrawing from its salient and attacking the strongly fortified town of Munsterbusch. Its fighting spirit undimmed, the 1st Battalion withdrew under pressure, launched the assault. The enemy poured deadly fire into its ranks inflicting severe losses on the attackers. The enemy fought savagely which often resulted in hand-to-hand combat."

"Despite enormous losses incurred in this offensive the 1st Battalion allowed the enemy no respite. Defending the town stubbornly the enemy employed tank, mortar, artillery, and automatic weapons fire and fanatically held their positions until either killed or overpowered by unremitting pressure. During the period 12-22 September 1944 the 1st Battalion demonstrated extraordinary heroism, exhibited gallantry, determination and esprit de corps in overcoming unusually difficult and hazardous conditions. The unconquerable spirit displayed by the 1st Battalion, 36th Armored Infantry Regiment in attack missions against important objectives made possible more deadly blows against the enemy."

Hats off! Memorial day in Libya truly a memorable one

Lt. Roy Bedell describes observance

Memorial Day in Tripoli! Lt. Roy Bedell of Prospect Heights writes his week from Libya, where he took part in honoring America's dead who fell on the plains of Africa. He speaks of Memorial Day, the most memorable day of his life.

"With the advent of V-E day in Europe, business has picked up in the Air-transport end of the Army. Everyone, of course, is buzzing about the point system for surplus forces, but on the day the Germans finally surrendered we were shown a film, 'Two Down and One to Go,' in which we were informed that the ATC has no surplus. That, needless to say, ends my extreme consternation over the point system. And as the favorite G.I. saying goes, 'Brother, you've had it!'

"Memorial day here this year will forever live in my memory, and never will I be able to think of that day as a holiday for flag waving. Here the sands were blowing free and the cool sea breeze fluttered the green date-palm leaves, as a long line of vehicles threaded their slow, tedious way over a rough, ancient Libyan Via to the desert bier of the American dead."

"Our hearts were closely linked to the bondage of those who died so recently in World War II—they alone form a chain of unending wooden crosses across Europe, North Africa, India, Burma, and the jungle islands and coral atolls of the South Pacific. And fathoms deep mixed with the salt of the seven seas, the bonds extend to circle the globe—let none forget that the earth is theirs, that our freedom was purchased from the Shylocks of the Axis, not by merely one pound of flesh."

"Up through Tripoli, past the grim monuments of iron and steel, ghost like hulks looming out from the sea, the ships with gigantic jagged holes in their sides, torn amidships by the screaming shells which made dust of some and ravaging idiots of others—the long line of G. I. canvas covered trucks filtered through the winding, tortuous streets, each loaded with soldiers to honor soldiers, sworn to carry on for they who fell."

"From off the hill the trumpet blew, the taps of memory, and in that memory which must never die, the chaplain most somber read the requiem for the dead. 'Short days ago we lived, Felt dawn and saw sunset glow, Loved and were loved.' A garland wreath entwined with many colored carnations was placed upon the tomb. Thereupon we prayed! Another day was done. We carry on from this day forth, and for those who lie here in our prayers, an eternity of peace awaits."

"There is but time for those who serve."

"And that is how we passed another Memorial Day, the first to know, victory for many years. May the next see total peace."

His address is Lt. Roy Bedell, 0-826606, 1262 AAFBU-ATC Pilot's Section, APO 498, 4 PM, New York N. Y.

Good farming means giving care to soil

Good all-around farming is not just a matter of getting good yields, but includes the matter of maintaining or increasing the available nutrient supplies in the soil, declares R. H. Bray, professor of soil fertility, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

It is good farming to produce high yields, but it's bad farming to produce the high yields without replenishing the supply of plant nutrients in the soil through fertilization.

Bray likened the soil to a factory with the plant nutrients as the raw materials. He added that "using up raw materials is what a factory is for, as one cannot get production without using raw materials."

"Too many farmers view the soil not as a factory, but as an inexhaustible source of supply of these raw materials, the plant nutrients. The soil does have a large supply of these available nutrients, but we have been using them at a fast rate; and if we wish to maintain high yields, we must maintain or build up a high level of the available nutrients."

"That means we must use fertilizers of one kind or another, depending on the soil's need for them."

"In the long run, it is more economical to maintain soil fertility than to deplete it and then try to build it back."

Illinois Farmers were given the suggestion by Professor Bray to visit the county farm adviser to learn of the services available regarding soil testing. Soil tests will keep the farmer informed as to the fertility supplies, warn him when they get too low and tell when they are sufficient. Bray concluded that in this way no farmer need use fertilizers where they are not needed or farm certain soils without fertilizer where it is needed.

Now is time to trim out water sprouts

Orchardists this week received the suggestion to jerk out water sprouts from apple trees.

V. W. Kelley, associate professor of horticulture extension, University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says this practice of jerking out the sprouts is especially desirable in commercial apple orchards where it is difficult to obtain labor for pruning operations.

Water sprouts are vigorous vertical shoots from the base of a branch or at the edges of a pruning wound. Usually these sprouts are cut out at the time of the regular dormant pruning in late winter or early spring, Kelley said.

The horticulturist asserted that water sprouts jerked out will not reappear at the same location because no buds are left at the base for new shoots. If this practice is followed for several years, Kelley pointed out, the number of water sprouts appearing will be gradually reduced. The small wounds caused by jerking out the sprouts will heal rapidly.

With labor at a premium, Kelley suggested that boys be taught to jerk the sprouts much as they have learned to "jerk sodas at the corner fountain."

SKOKIE

Crop prospects

See record wheat, big oats, small barley crops

During the week ending June 9, cattle receipts at Chicago were especially heavy and the market was sharply lower. Stockers and feeders found a broad outlet for the week, however, with the market closing steady to strong. The current week saw a reversal to lighter receipts and higher prices at Chicago, with an active demand on the part of local killers and eastern order buyers for practically everything worth slaughtering. Stock cattle continued to find an active outlet.

The grain markets during the past week have been characterized by strength in prices, by small receipts and by an optimistic small-grain crop estimate.

A new high record of 1,085 million bushels of wheat was forecast Monday by the Federal Crop Reporting Service. A big oats crop is in prospect with a forecast of 1,334 million bushels compared with 1,166 million bushels last year. This would be the largest oats crop in the past 20 years with the exception of 1942.

The prospective barley crop is the smallest since 1938, but the production is estimated at slightly above last year's very short crop. The hay crop will be smaller than those of the past three years but larger than any other crop since 1927. The early Irish potato crop promises a new record harvest at 64.3 million bushels compared to 52.7 million bushels last year.

A large peach crop, particularly in the southern states and Illinois, is in prospect. However, the apple crop promises to be unusually small. The government and educational institutions are advising housewives to can and preserve with a minimum amount of sugar in order to utilize most efficiently all fruits that will become available this year. The government requirements for canned fruits and vegetables will be very heavy, and it will be up to civilians to preserve the maximum amount of these products.

A farmer may slaughter meat for consumption by those who reside on his own farm without obtaining an OPA slaughter permit. If he sells, markets or otherwise transfers any meat, however, he must obtain a slaughter permit before July 1.

The Senate passed and sent to the House the price control extension act, but added a rider which would outlaw any price ceiling which failed to give farmers a "reasonable profit" on any agricultural commodity, and another amendment which would guarantee "profitable" price ceilings for meat slaughterers and packers. The cost of production amendment is looked upon as being very inflationary and extremely difficult to administer. It is doubtful that this feature will become a law.

Washington officials are deeply concerned over the prospects of inflation. An effort will be made to keep a tight hand on the use of money and to continue price controls, rationing and high taxes in an effort to prolong prosperity without a boom and prevent a later serious collapse. At the present time farm land prices are rising month by month, city real estate is booming in some areas and security prices are rising. If price controls are relaxed, it is entirely possible that there will be a scramble for consumers' goods that would cause a rapid rise in their price before production could be increased enough to satisfy the demands.

Keep litter dry to avoid chick diseases

The unusually wet spring presents a health hazard to the young poultry flock by making an outbreak of coccidiosis more possible, states a report from the department of animal pathology and hygiene at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Birds two to six months of age may become infected if kept under conditions which favor the development and spread of the parasite causing the disease. One symptom indicating the presence of the disease is a bloody diarrhea. Even in mild form, the disease causes considerable numbers of deaths among young chicks and general unthriftiness in growing pullets.

Deep litter in the brooder house is recommended by the Illinois veterinarians as a simple and relatively effective measure in controlling serious outbreaks. Chopped straw, shavings or sawdust five to eight inches deep in the brooder house may be used, and if kept dry the house need not be cleaned out during the time the birds are kept in. The parasite causing coccidiosis may be diluted by stirring the litter daily and by adding more litter material.

Especially should the area about feeders and waterers be kept from becoming wet and sloppy, for it is here that the birds are in closest contact with each other. Deep dry litter should be maintained until the birds are turned out on range.

Clean, dry brooder houses and a well-drained clean range are the best protection from the disease, though experiments are being carried on to develop medicines that will cure it. Preventive measures are better than medicine, the veterinarians state.

In cases where coccidiosis is suspected, diagnosis should be obtained and veterinary advice sought as to the most effective curative and control measures.

Bull moves

Boyar Hill Top Farm, Palatine, recently acquired a registered Holstein-Friesian bull from the herd of Albert C. Steinkamp, Waukegan, Wis. Change of ownership for this animal, Dick Ollie Montvic Segis 920986, has been officially recorded by The Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vt.

The Association issued 12,513 registry and transfer certificates to Illinois breeders during 1944.

Mrs. Ruth Bade has sued Walter Bade in Superior court for divorce. They were married in Des Plaines July 25, 1932, and separated in January of 1942. They have one child, a daughter aged 6 years.

Master Mix Growing Mash fortified with new, sensational M-V. See your Master Mix Dealer, right away.

It was M-V that made the difference in divided flock tests at the McMillen laboratories. Master Mix Chick Starter with M-V put weight on chicks faster... at 15% less cost than the best previous Master Mix ration. Faster growth! Sounder growth! 15% saved out of every feeding dollar! That's worthwhile, isn't it?

Pork produced at even bigger savings! 15.7% less feed per hundred pound gain. That's what happened in laboratory tests at the McMillen laboratories. Pigs fed Master Mix ration with M-V gained faster than those fed a corn tankage alfalfa, mineral ration... and at a more than 15% saving in feed per hundred pound gain. No wonder M-V is the talk of farmers everywhere.

What is M-V (Methio-Vite)? Methio-Vite is a new-found practical source, not only of the essential B-complex vitamins, but also of the Methionine Complex... "spark plug" of the amino acids not found in adequate quantities in common feed mixtures. It is the result of the type of research which has always made Master Mix Feeds outstanding... and will always keep them so.

Now fortified with M-V (Methio-Vite)

They stand in mud for church in New Hebrides

Harry Zeck now on Okinawa

First Lt. Harry Zeck of Prospect Heights, now with the 27th Infantry, 10th Army, at Okinawa, has visited two strange groups of people in the far Pacific. At New Hebrides, a group of 40 islands of mixed volcanic and coralline origin, he met Melanesians, a black-skinned race who reckon their descent through their mothers and families and still occasionally practice cannibalism. Then, after traveling better than 4,000 miles of the Pacific, he was landed on Okinawa, where he has met the strange "Okies," the docile non-Japanese citizens of the Ryukyu Islands, a people with a heavy strain of Chinese blood and peculiar burial customs.

A recent letter to his wife and little son, who reside with Mrs. Zeck's parents, the Arthur Porches, at 301 East Marion avenue, comments on his attendance at a religious service in New Hebrides and several interesting items on Okinawa, which lies only 325 miles from southern Japan.

Church services at New Hebrides

"Parents' back in the States would be amazed to see what difficulties soldiers endure to follow their religion—sometimes at least. Take this present mission for example. It was conducted out of doors at the theatre and each of the three nights that services were held, it rained. This rain started on Sunday and continued all day and all night Monday and Tuesday. Can you picture the men walking a mile through the rain, sitting on wet benches throughout a downpour? Well, they did! More than 3,000 of them and it seemed every one of them concluded the mission by receiving the Sacraments. The buildings are very frail, some with thatched roofs and others with tile, all under six feet high, obviously indicating natives small in stature. These houses are simply constructed with little or no metal used in building, as all joints are pegged or slotted. Most of the buildings have been hit by artillery, sprayed with shrapnel or partially burned, and the remainder with piles of rubble and dirt."

"This is, of course, a coral island and quite naturally it boasts some exquisite formations throughout the area. In places it reminds me of some of our rougher mountain-like terrain in the west—very jagged pinnacles with many caves.

"Practically all the hills are just a maze of tombs, all large and well cared for. Inside are the bodies of ancestors for the past couple of hundred years. Apparently the dead are allowed to rot until merely bones remain, the skeleton is then dismembered and placed in an orderly fashion in a large vase or urn, with the skull resting on top. The vases are neatly lined inside the tomb. It is a queer method of burial and it seems everyone here follows the same pattern, probably something they acquired from the Chinese who previously controlled these islands.

"We are located in a little village which appears to have been the gathering place for the local farmers. You know—Saturday night in town—social functions and so on. The buildings are very frail, some

THURSDAY, JULY 5
OBJECTIVE BURMA

Florida

From Miami, Florida, comes word of Stu Paddock of Palatine. "I'm assistant A. G. F. (Army Ground Forces) Liaison officer of which there are two of us. We welcome the 'green project' men, those who are being flown back from Europe and CBI. We have 2 'welcome' tables a day and coordinate the activities to get them out of here to reception centers near their homes as fast as possible — from 6 to 24 hours.

"They arrive at all times of the day and night in large transport planes. We have a nice office in the terminal building at the base (airport). I live in a swanky hotel 5 miles from there—clean sheets and linen every day and a private bath. The work is very light but I have to be on duty from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. A 3 star general came in today in his own B-17.

"Living expenses are terrific here but this hotel taken over by the army costs me only 75c a night. Meals are $1.50 a day. I haven't been to Miami and will stay out of it. Officers with their wives here are paying $85 a month for the smallest of apartments.

"I won't have to buy tropicals. They are $60 a suit and no one wears them to work, so I'm safe. I'm going to get some khaki suits. Laundry service is poor and you need at least one suit per day. By noon, it's just wilted.

"I went to the dog races near here last night with three other officers. It was the first time I had ever seen them and they looked silly."

His address is Capt. Stuart Paddock, Asst AGF Liaison Officer, Miami AAF, Miami 30, Fla.

These houses are simply constructed with little or no metal used in building, as all joints are pegged or slotted. Most of the buildings have been hit by artillery, sprayed with shrapnel or partially burned, and the remainder with piles of rubble and dirt."

No more papers to many GIs

Many local servicemen will fail to receive any more issues of Paddock Publications simply by failure of either the boys or their parents to acquaint themselves with latest navy regulations.

New postal rules require Navy, Marine and Coast Guardsmen overseas to present a written request for the paper upon expiration of their present subscription. After July 1, no FPO subscription can be renewed unless a written request is on hand at the publication office.

WUS cannot stress too strongly the hardship this rule is going to have upon many servicemen. Many of the boys haven't bothered to send a request for renewal to the publishers and will miss future issues of the paper. In some cases, where patriotic organizations sustain cost of subscriptions, the FPO boys will still miss their paper for lack of request.

Best answer to the above problem is to have all FPO men write their requests IMMEDIATELY. WUS will keep them on file until subscriptions expire. Also, families of all FPO men are urged to bring in letters with requests included. Such letters are acceptable, but must be kept on file at the office.

One last chance in the entire set-up is the July 1 date for instigation of the new rule. Any subscriptions renewed this week can be made without the request. But, beginning Monday, all FPO renewals MUST include the serviceman's written request.

The following men will not receive any future issues of the paper until requests are received:
Arlington Heights: R. W. Koeppen, H. G. Klehm, A. S. Luerssen.

Bensenville: H. S. Abel, Bob DeLacey, G. C. Dierking, R. A. Garcia, J. C. Holmstrom, Art Jennings, George Kouzmanoff, O. A. Mellon, F. Skoulard, C. F. Wesbrock, M. L. Schneider.
Mt. Prospect: C. G. Berlin, John Holding.
Others: Joseph Emmerich, H. M. Loeding, E. F. Weight, E. F. Dawson, G. R. Kassel.

Discharged

Another Palatine man to be discharged next week is Wallace Pappajakeski. He writes from Camp Wolters, Texas, where he has been stationed since completing a tour of duty in the Aleutians.

"It has been a long time since I have written to you. This time I have the best news a G. I. could get. That is, I am going to get a discharge. I leave here this weekend and should be discharged some time next week from Fort Sheridan.

"I am getting out under the point system. I have been in the army 52 months, with 41 months over in the Aleutians. I have a total of 121 points."

Shot down twice but returns home

T-Sgt. Cal Page tells of return from Russians

Now home after completing 42 missions over enemy occupied territory in Europe is Technical Sergeant Calvin Page of Arlington Heights. Cal served as an engineer-gunner in a B-24 with the 15th air force based in Italy. Most of his trips were over the Alps into Germany and Austria.

"That gunner part was a laugh. I doubt if I fired more than 20 rounds in the entire 7 months I was overseas. My engineer job included keeping the ship in good repair while in flight. Our plane had so much hard luck I was always fixing something whenever there was any action.

"We considered ourselves lucky on those trips over the Alps if only one motor was out. Even two wasn't surprising and more than once three motors conked out. Those were the times our hair would rise and we'd wonder if we'd ever see home again.

"I sometimes thought our crew had cat's lives for we made eight emergency landings and were shot down twice. Yet none of the crew from start to finish were casualties, though a couple of us had near misses when shrapnel hit our flak suits and helmets. But we all finished the 42 missions together.

Louisiana

Now at Camp Livingston, Louisiana, is Edwin Brzostowski of Palatine. His address is Pvt. Edwin Brzostowski, Co A 141st Bn 36 Regt., Camp Livingston, La.

Herbert Busse of Mt. Prospect. His address is Pvt. Herbert H. Busse, Co A 141st Bn 36th Regt., Camp Livingston, La.

AS Russell Dahlstrom of Mt. Prospect is at home from Tulane university, New Orleans, La. He goes back July 3.

"We could hear the other crews talking among themselves describing our ship going down and away. As we passed over one mountain the other crews reported a terrific explosion and thought us dead. We hurried back to base and were sitting in the briefing room when in came the other crews. We sat back while they reported our ship had gone down in flames, stating we were probably all killed. We got quite a laugh out of it when they saw us sitting there, but they were too glad to see us to care.

A close one

"On one trip two motors were damaged, giving us about half power. All the wires on a third had been shot away. That was one of the times we thought we'd never get home. There were sixty holes in the tail and the top turret had been blown away.

"The top gunner was hit on the helmet three times by shrapnel, each time also taking part of the turret. He jumped down by the open bomb bay doors. I thought he was dead, and he thought his head had been shot off. We were both relieved when he snapped out of it.

"On another trip more controls were shot away. The plane started losing altitude, heading down fast. The pilot turned on the automatic pilot, which leveled the plane. I attempted to fix the wires by winding them around a screw driver to hold them together. We tried them out but the plane nosed down again.

"I discovered I had fastened the wrong wires together and unhooked them, making the right connection. This held and the plane soared on. I looked down through the doors and saw water just 150 feet below. Was I scared! We prayed for the screw driver to hold and it did.

Lose plenty of equipment

"Once in a while we would take along a new man to break him in. We'd always remark while over the target that the flak was 'light and inaccurate'. On one particular trip we had laughed ahead of time about how we'd worry this new man coming aboard. But when the time came flak was so heavy all of us were so scared we forgot all about kidding the poor guy.

"I wish I knew how much equipment we had to throw overboard on the return trip in order to cross the Alps. We always had to fly 20,000 feet to get above the mountains and many a time, with 1 or 2 motors gone, there'd be doubt as to whether we'd make it. We'd bomb at 25,000, sustain damage necessitating lower altitude, and then have to start tossing over things we could to make the plane lighter.

"There was always plenty of ammunition aboard and that would rate an early priority. Then everything else, except personal belongings, but never the guns. It was a court martial offense to throw flak suits or guns overboard unless the reason was plenty good.

"The only time we threw too much was once when out the window went the flak suits. In times of stress you tend to grab everything that's loose. It just so happened that a colonel in another plane had also tossed verboten equipment out, which saved our court martial, for he still had 500 gallons of gas left when he landed. Our reason was better than his.

One trip 1400 miles

"We were based on the southern tip of Italy, preventing us from traveling as far north as some of the other squadrons. Longest trip we made was 1400 miles to Eger, Germany. That was about 25 miles south of Berlin. That day's raid was in conjunction with the 8th air force in England and kept the Germans busy all day long.

"Part of the job every day was to just skirt extra towns that were not on the bombing schedule. Purpose was to disrupt Nazi production schedules. We'd come near enough to set off their alarms, pulling the workers from the factories, then move on without dropping our loads. Of course, we wouldn't go through the flak if we could help it.

"By the time I got overseas last fall German fighter opposition was meager. A lot of the fighters we did meet were jet-propelled and we couldn't do anything about them anyway. They made our fighters look as if they were standing still as they'd zoom by. And we could never see them enough to fire. I know of one gunner who got off a shot when the Nazi came out of a cloud, not suspecting there were Yank bombers nearby. That gunner was on his toes and had spotted the German plane immediately.

Shot down twice

"We were shot down twice, the first time landing in Italy at Viterbo. Three of our motors had been knocked out, we had thrown everything out, and came out of a cloud to find an American negro fighter pilot, who guided us down to the nearest airfield. After we landed they attempted to start the motors again but not a one would turn over.

"The second time the plane was downed we landed at Linz, Austria. A week earlier and we would have been in German hands. But the Russians had just taken that territory.

"We then started our trip back to American lines. Our first method of travel was oxcart. We met another American crew that had been downed the same day and combined forces. We traveled off a freight car behind a very small engine covering 22 miles in 11 hours.

What a menu!

"The entire group was given 6 loaves of bread, 5 lbs. of salt pork and bloody salami. That had to last us several days until we moved farther back. We sold our wrist watches for money with which to buy eggs, and that helped a little. But the Russians finally flew us to Odessa, and thence on to Tarento.

"Living on the Russian diet was quite an experience. In the first place, the Russians like their salt pork raw. And the salami! You'd break it and the blood would ooze out. The bread was hard and heavy with each loaf weighing 22 pounds. We called it cake. Some guys say you could find nails in it. I know just a small piece of it would fill you up.

"All the water had to be purified, but we had plenty of halazone tablets along. Then, too, a couple of the boys lived on wine, saving the halazone tablets for the rest of us.

"But to top it all off, the Russians fed us 'borsh'. That is something by itself. Words cannot explain it. It is made of beets, wine and anything else that may be handy. When we were far from the front we were given a hearty breakfast of meat and potatoes, and a very light supper. But at noon we'd have 'borsh'. Of all the stuff they should get rid of after the war, that should head the list."

Cal entered service in December of '41, going overseas last November. He arrived in the States June 19, and came to Arlington Heights Saturday night. He reports back to duty July 26.

T-Sgt. Page wears the ETO ribbon with 5 campaign stars, the American Defense ribbon, Good Conduct Medal, Air Medal with 2 clusters and silver combat wings. He has 92 points toward discharge but doesn't believe it will earn him his return to civilian life.

France

Piloting one of the 27th Air Transport Group twin engine Skytrains over Europe, 1st Lieutenant Lawrence O. Grey, of Arlington Heights, transports cargo and important military personnel from an Air Tech. Serv. Command Field at Villacoublay Airdrome, France, to key occupation points on the continent and rushes high priority wounded combat men from hospitals inside Germany to ports of embarkation.

Having delivered hundreds of tons of war goods to advanced air and ground forces and flown thousands of injured fighting men from battle zone airstrips during the mighty spring offensives, Lieutenant Grey's 302nd Transport Wing unit is currently operating one of the largest American passenger and cargo airlines in Europe.

Before entering the Air Forces in March, 1943, Lieutenant Grey was employed by the Public Service Company of North Illinois. Overseas since August of the previous year with the Royal Canadian Air Force, he now wears two battle stars for participation in the campaigns of Northern France and Germany.

His sister, Mrs. Lucille Baxter, is now living at 24 North Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights.

Commissions as second lieutenants were given former enlisted men who recently graduated from the Infantry Officer Candidates School in the European Theater of Operations.

Members of the fourth class to complete the course, the new lieutenants were assigned immediately after graduation as infantry platoon leaders. Many of the men who had been with infantry organizations returned to the units in which they had served as enlisted men.

Originally, the course was planned as a 13-week program but the need for platoon leaders made it necessary to compress the course into eight weeks of highly intensive training. Nearly all branches of the army are represented in the new officers and many of the men held combat decorations won as enlisted men.

George R. Dresser of Mt. Prospect is one of the newly commissioned second lieutenants.

Changing his address in France is Robert Greinke of Mt. Prospect. His address is Cpl. Robert Greinke, 36629894, Hq & Hq Btry, 788 AAA AW Bn, APO 638, % PM, New York, N. Y.

From Dublin, Georgia, comes word of Oren Breda of Arlington Heights.

"This is to notify you of my change of address. I have been transferred from the Naval Hospital at Bainbridge, Md., after spending 7 weeks there. I'm now at the Naval Hospital at Dublin, Ga., for further treatment. I expect to be home on sick leave soon."

His address is O. H. Breda, GVM 3c USCG, Ward 6A, U. S. Naval Hospital, Dublin, Georgia.

His address is Sgt. Marvin Horcher, 36759723, Co I 135 Inf., APO 34, % PM, New York City, N. Y.

From at sea in the Pacific comes word of Warren Person of Wheeling.

County Herald for a year now and have thoroughly enjoyed it. "Since I've come out here I anxiously look in the paper for the section of the Pacific I'm in hoping that some one I know from home will be here. So far I've had no luck but I keep on trying any way. Not much has happened to me except I've been to two Jima and Okinawa on 'D' days." His address is Ens. W. R. Person % FPO, San Francisco, Calif.

Holland

Food made available by the United States government for distribution among the Dutch people is stored in a giant warehouse operated by men of the 331st Quartermaster Depot Company. The actual distribution of the food, including military rations and specially packaged cooking ingredients, is supervised by Civil Affairs personnel.

The food depot, which has a capacity for storage of 75,000 tons of food, is designated Q179-C by the army, one of the many installations of the 58th Quartermaster Base Depot. The 58th is one of the army's largest supply centers in Europe.

Allied troops sweeping through southern Holland last winter found the people, their belongings carried off by the Germans, on the verge of starvation. Special shipments of foodstuffs were arranged to meet the emergency and men of the 331st, who have been operating supply depots for two and one-half years, were assigned to the food center. More food was provided residents of northern Holland shortly before VE-Day by air transport.

Local member of the 331st is Pfc. Marvin Harris of Palatine.

'Jap suicide ships fail in attempt to sink us'

Joe Holmstrom tells of action

Joseph H. Holmstrom, PO3c, on a L. S. M. in the southwest Pacific, is a member of a crew commended by Homer B. Maxey, Commander of LSM Group Two, Flotilla One. This commendation was given on May 8 to LSM 5, in appreciation of the engagement described in a letter to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Holmstrom, his parents, who live on West Green ave., Bensenville.

"Since late April, until just recently, we were at Okinawa, just 300 miles from Japan. Among other things we were on patrol duty around a place called Nakagusuku Wan. (Wan is Japanese for bay.) Anyway we were at the southern end where all the fighting was going on.

"During the day dive bombers would come over and bomb the Japs' pillboxes and gun emplacements. At night the big ships would shell the beach. Most of the time we would be in close and the shells would whiz over the ship, scaring us almost as much as the Japs.

Try to sink us

"May 3 the Japs tried to sink the big ships that were shelling them. It just happened that we were on patrol at the place in the bay where the Japs had to launch their attack. I was on watch from 8 to 12, upon the bow as lookout. The task force in the harbor had warned us to expect trouble and kept dropping flares and star shells over the bay.

"About ten-thirty I noticed two boats about a mile away, trying to get out of the light of the flares. I reported them in the same instant another lookout and radar did. I had glasses and could see men standing in the sterns of both boats. We all knew they were Japs but no one was scared. It was too late for that.

"General quarters was sounded and about half an hour later we picked them up with radar again and went after them. It was very dark but you could see the boats in the water only a few hundred yards away. They turned the searchlight on one and instead of shooting away he came straight for us.

"The Japs have several sizes of suicide boats and this was a medium one. We fired everything we had at it but it still kept coming. It had a nice cabin on it and Jap figures on the bow. I would say it was about 20 or 25 feet long.

"Finally it caught fire and stopped moving. I saw one Jap flaming all over. He was wounded but he rolled out of the boat and tried to swim away. A few seconds later it blew up. There were four or five Japs in it and they were all killed.

Plenty of others

"While this was going on we were also shooting at three others within a hundred yards of us. All together we sank or destroyed two for sure and one probable. There were about 20 suicide boats out that night, but none did any damage. We sank five of them, more than any other ship.

"Just as it got daylight we spotted another one hightailing it for home. We started after him but a Jap five inch gun changed our minds. We decided to let someone else get him.

"Every night the Jap planes would come over. I saw a couple shot down near by but most of the time they were shot down before they got very close. We didn't fire at the planes because we didn't want to give away our position.

"At night we could see the fighting going on ashore. The marines used flame throwers very effectively.

Now in port

"At last we are in dry-dock. That's what we've been waiting all these weeks for. If my hopes come true, I'll see Josh, Charlie, Mr. Kirby and Lawrence Kolze in the next few days. They are all here in the Marianas. A couple more invasions and we'll start back, too.

"You people at home can't understand the strain we have to go through in combat. For three weeks I had to sleep with my clothes on and life jacket handy. We knew the Japs were there and all we could do was wait, wait, wait. One night we went through an air raid with fifty five thousand gallons of gasoline on board. If a bomb had ever hit us I doubt if anyone would have lived."
